MR. TILDEN AND THE CIPHERS.

It cannot be justly disputed since the developments of the past few weeks, that the lowest political character this country ever produced is Samuel J. Tilden. Before he was nominated in 1876, the Cincinnati Enquirer, a most uncompromising Democratic paper, said Tilden was not worthy to be President, for the reason that beside being a political trickster, he was the most selfish man that ever aspired to an office. In 1868, Horace Greeley, who four years afterwards became the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, solemnly and publicly charged Tilden with the crime of buying the electoral vote of New York for Horatio Seymour, and Tilden nor any of his friends ever denied it, for they could not, as there was positive proof against the great reformer. In 1876, before the St. Louis Convention met, Tilden contracted with a prominent advertising agency in New York, to have a certain number of personal notices relative to himself as a reformer and a candidate for the Presidency, published in a majority of the Democratic papers, in the United States. There were three separate notices of from four to six lines each, which were to be published as editorials, and for which the publishers were to receive the sum of three dollars. The La Crosse Democrat received the notices but discovered the trick, exposed the fraud by publishing them as coming from the advertising agency, and refused to receive pay therefor. Scores of Democratic papers did the same thing, though they supported the great reformer after he had succeeded in purchasing his nomination. His last trick, when he saw that he was defeated by the will of the people, was the attempt to bribe a Republican elector, and by this means secure the Presidency. To accomplish this, he sent several confidential agents to South Carolina and Florida. The telegraphic correspondence between Tilden and the agents was to be done in ciphers—a system which Tilden had used for years. These cipher dispatches reveal the most unblushing scheme to defeat the will of the people ever known in this country. But Tilden denies having anything to do with the cipher dispatches or knowing anything about them. He stands convicted of the most appalling political crime of the age, and he does not satisfy his friends that he is innocent. The reason why he stands convicted are these:

1. The cipher telegrams concerning the purchasing of an elector that was from the South, were directed to No. 15 Gramercy Park, Tilden's home. Those sent to Havemeyer were taken to Tilden's house for translation.

2. The key used by the Tribune in translating the ciphers, was one used by Tilden as it correctly translated the cipher dispatches in the case of the stealing of the New York Mining Company at Marquette.

3. Pelton, in whose hands all the cipher dispatches fell, lives at 15 Gramercy Park, is Tilden's nephew and heir, and is also his private secretary, and all the mysterious dispatches regarding the purchasing of an elector to make Tilden President, entered the private office and library of Samuel J. Tilden, where he and his nephew worked.

4. It is possible that Tilden and his secretary (and by the way Pelton is a bankrupt) could occupy the same library room, when hundreds of cipher dispatches were being received and sent in regard to carrying out a scheme which would make Tilden the President of the United States, and yet Tilden not know what was going on?

5. This scheme involved the expenditure of from $50,000 to $200,000. Inasmuch as Pelton is not worth a cent, and is fed at Tilden's table, it is not altogether improbable that he would take any step which would involve the payment of so large sums without advising with his uncle, to whom the money belonged, and on the payment of which Tilden would become the highest officer in the nation? Could Tilden remain in profound

—J. R. Doolittle is booked for a speech here Friday night.
—The little daughter of Mr. John Thoroughgood died yesterday afternoon of diphtheria.
—Mrs. George W. Sheldon, of Chicago, is in the city visiting, the guest of Mrs. Clara Shaw.

—Jerry Pendigost, of Johnstown, was today fined $1 and costs, by Justice Pritchard, for being drunk.
—Cows make cowards of 'em all. No one seems anxious to meddle with the ordinance and pound the creatures.

—The illness of Postmaster Patterson is proving to be quite a serious one, and will probably confine him to his house for some time.

—Hon. Chas. G. Williams will speak in Lappin's hall next Saturday night. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw out a large crowd.

—The case of the State against Henry A. Doty, the complaint being sworn out by J. R. Richardson, was dismissed last evening by Justice Pritchard before whom the examination was held.

—The Boards of Registry are at work today. Remember that to-morrow is the last chance to get your name placed on the list. It is not safe to rely on one else to put it there, but each should see to this personally, and be sure that his name is there enrolled.

—The news comes from Memphis of the death of Capt. James Rolston, Steamboat Inspector of the Port, and his wife, at Raleigh, and that five more of the family are down with the fever. Captain Rolston was a brother of Mr. Samuel Rolston, a well-known resident of this city.

—The shoe factory is now enjoying a season of high prosperity. Its goods are being sold rapidly, and a full corps of employees is kept busy. The managers propose now to go into the additional manufacture of men's wear, a branch which they have heretofore not touched upon. They will doubtless succeed in working up the business to still larger proportions.

—The sad news comes from Appleton that Dr. G. R. Horne, of that city, a son of Dr. Horne, of Janesville, has been sadly bereaved by the death yesterday of his wife and their little infant daughter only two weeks old. The bereaved husband started this morning with the remains for Whitewater where they will be interred. The deaths must have been quite sudden as both mother and child were doing nicely at last reports.

—A quiet but pleasant matrimonial event took place in this city this morning at the residence of Mr. E. P. Bly, it being the marriage of his daughter, Miss Lola M. Bly, to Mr. William McKinnon, of Sacramento Valley, California. Rev. T. P. Sawin performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon will spend a few days in visiting friends in Evansville and will then go to their home in the West.

—Lapointe who was so badly wounded Saturday night in an affray in Beloit, was still alive when heard from this morning, but there is only about an even chance for him to get well, his injuries being of a serious nature. Carey the watchman, who inflicted the wounds, and who claims to have done so in self defense has been arrested and gave bail to await results. The tramp named Sullivan who was with Lapointe, has been brought to this city to serve thirty days for vagrancy.

—Justice Pritchard had two vags before him today. One of them was of a legal turn of mind and would not plead until he had heard the statute read defining the offense of vagrancy. He was much surprised on finding that it contained no clause by which a tramp was entitled to sup, lodge and breakfast for one time at least at the county's expense. He made a forcible argument on the question of labor and capital, illustrated with personal reminiscences but all to no avail. He went back to the chain gawling about taking an appeal and carrying the case to the Supreme Court.

—Wall King came within one of having a good thing on the gas company. He got Mr. Libbey to put in for him some elegant gas fixtures, and after his lighting apparatus had been placed in connection with the meter, and all in readiness for daily use it was discovered that the gas company had put in the meter wrong side to, so that the more gas he burned the less there was charged to him, the hands of the dial, of course moving just the opposite of what they should. The mistake was discovered in time to prevent King from having a bill against the company instead of the company having a bill against him. The employees of the gas company relish the joke as hugely as any one, from the fact that the mistake was made by the "boss." They seldom catch him napping, but this time they had it on him much to their joy.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 33 degrees above and at 2 o'clock this afternoon at 45 degrees above. Clear. One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 34 and 61 degrees above.

The indications today are for the upper lake region, cloudy and rainy, followed by clearing weather, colder northwesterly winds, rising barometer.

SAD AND SUDDEN.

The Reported Drowning of Charlie Colvin and Jules Sherer.

The Friends Anxiously Waiting for Further Particulars.

This afternoon the following sad tidings were received over the wires:

MILTON JUNE, Wis., Oct. 22, '78.
To the Gazette Printing Company:
Jules Sherer and a clerk supposing to work for you, are lost in the lake near Pierce's Point.

There is no doubt but that, the second person referred to in the dispatch is Charles A. Colvin, the eldest son of Mr. R. L. Colvin, of the Gazette. The two were together at the lake, hunting, and as no other attack of the Gazette is in that vicinity there seems little ground for hope. The two boys went out there together a day or two ago, intending to spend several days in hunting, and it is more than probable that they were together at the time of the accident. Young Sherer is a son of Mrs. Agnes Sherer, and a brother of Mr. Frank Sherer, of the firm of Croft & Sherer, and had for some time been employed in their drug store. He is about nineteen years old, and has a large circle of friends to whom this news will come with sad suddenness. Charlie Colvin was about the same age, and was engaged in the business office of the Gazette. He was widely known both in the social and business circles of this city, and was an active young man of much promise. Mr. Colvin, Mr. Frank Sherer, and others have driven out to the lake, and the many friends of both the young men will wait anxiously for further particulars.

THE MYSTERIOUS STRANGER.

The Bohemian who now lies in jail here on a charge of stealing some barley in La Prairie, has got a fair start for the penitentiary, if the charges now laid at his door are proved to be true. It is claimed that he is the same one who stole grain near Milton, and it is also claimed that he has been stealing in other quarters. Near Delavan were stolen a lot of hides which were shipped from there to Chicago. At Whitewater there was another shipment of stolen hides. A short time ago this same man is said to have shipped from Monroe a few bags of peas and then coming to Janesville reshipped the same from here to Chicago. In fact he seems to have been engaged in a general produce business, which savors badly of crookedness. These charges will culminate, perhaps, in a conviction which may send him up for a season. The man has a team which is now stabled in this city. He gives so many different names that it is difficult to tell what his true name is, and his accounts of the team are likewise badly mixed. He told the Sheriff that he bought them in Lawrence, Kansas, and gave the name of the man, of whom he claims to have bought them, but word has been received that no such man lives in or about Lawrence, and his story is evidently a myth. The team consists of a bay mare weighing about 1,300 and about twelve years old and a brown horse of about the same weight and age, and of pony build. The wagon is a sort of poddler's vehicle with slats as though it had been used by a butcher. The Sheriff is anxiously searching for further information concerning the mysterious stranger and his business.

AN UGLY RUNAWAY.

There was a serious runaway this forenoon on East Milwaukee street. A team belonging to Mr. Mosher and drawing a wagon loaded with furniture was coming down the hill, the driver walking in the road beside the load, when the horses became frightened and started on the run. Just before reaching Bluff street the runaway rig struck the hind wheels of a lumber wagon in which were seated Mrs. Orcutt and her son Alonzo Orcutt, and a little four-year old boy. The latter wagon was pulled around and upset throwing the occupants out and injuring two of them quite severely. Mrs. Orcutt suffering a severe shock to the spinal column and several bad bruises, and her son having one ankle badly hurt, the wheels passing over his leg at that point. The little boy strangely enough escaped injury. The injured ones were taken to Mr. Brownell's house where their wounds and bruises were cared for, and they were then taken to their home about a mile from Mount Zion. One of Mr. Mosher's horses was also very badly hurt by the collision, the neckyoke entering his breast and inflicting a serious gash. He was taken into a stable near by, and cared for. It is thought he will survive.

WORDS ABOUT WOMEN.

Miss Lavinia Goodell Makes an Appeal in Favor of Woman's Suffrage.

Miss Lavinia Goodell, of this city, is reported as having made a very interesting address at the meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Association of America, which was held in Providence R. I., on the 17th inst. The president in introducing her gave a brief account of Miss Goodell's struggle and final victory in gaining admission to practice in the higher courts, and paid her a high compliment.

Miss Goodell opened her address by referring to the changes which had taken place in public opinion. Twenty-five years ago a woman's suffrage convention would have been ridiculed. Those women who stepped upon the platform then were sneered at as unwomanly. Not so now. She rehearsed some of the old-time arguments against women taking an active part in life, and pointed out the difference between then and now. Now the question of equal pay for equal work was rapidly adjusting itself. Women were now acting as pastors, physicians, editors and lawyers, and still the world moved on, and men and women were still married and given in marriage. Again, if the governing power gets its just right from the consent of the governed, then women should be taken into consideration, as well as men. The votes and influence of women were needed in all the reformatory measures. It was not true that woman's sphere was home, and that her duties there would take all her time. Men seemed to cherish the erroneous idea that women spent the whole of their time in rocking cradles, washing dishes, and darning stockings. Some women spent much time in keeping up with the fashions, and of all the devices of the adversary none was more absurd and yet successful than to make her take her dresses to pieces and put them together again every six months. For her own part she would be glad when the questions of the day would so engage the attention of women that the latest pinback would not be considered of so great importance. It was said that woman would lose her charms by going into politics. There had always been this feeling among men that woman would lose her charms when she tried to do anything that they didn't want her to do. It was also said that women would not go to the polls if they had the chance. This was an absurd assumption. Women who could go to the liquor stores and pray, and to the polls and exhort their husbands to vote for prohibition, would not be afraid to go to the polls when they had the ballot in their own hands. She did not agree to the argument that women did not want the ballot. In conclusion she called on her hearers to break the fetters of time and Mrs. Grundy, and cease to serve the world, the flesh and the other partner in the same concern. Then, she said, women would find time to serve the Master and to develop higher types of character.

BROODHEAD.

—We are having very chilly weather and quite hard frosts here. A goodly number of the farmers are busily engaged in harvesting their corn, to avoid cold fingers hereafter.

—The supply of teachers, for the winter terms of school, seems to be rather below the average in number. All the best having been engaged, while there seems quite a demand for the same in this region.

—Quite a number of district boards have adopted uniform text books in the schools which they represent. Harper Bros. works seem to be taking the lead in this vicinity.

—We note that Mr. Burr Sprague is now the owner and proprietor of the Brodhead Independent. Mr. Sprague is a gentleman well known and liked here, and will undoubtedly make a success of it.

—The citizens of Brodhead were entertained by a street exhibition of horsemanship, on the 19th inst., by the distinguished horseman, Prof. Hurlburt. The Professor was successful in getting up a good class afterward. All seemed well pleased.

—The strife between the political parties in these parts is quite considerable. In the hall of the Republics, Mr. J. R. Bennett and Hon. J. B. Cassidy, of Janesville, will address the people of Avon and vicinity, on the evening of the 25th inst. A good attendance is expected.

—In the whisky suit, village of Brodhead vs. Brodhead, the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

—The Rev. D. O. Sanborn, is retained on the Orfordville charge. After two years faithful labor among us, he is welcomed back by many friends.

A Pardonable Pride.

Promptly meet people to delay, by any laudable means that science affords, the evidences of physical decay. Parker's Hair Balm stands pre-eminent as an elegant hair dressing, and by its healthful action on the roots not only promotes a luxuriant growth of the young hair, but unfailingly restores gray or faded hair to the original youthful color, giving a soft, rich and lustrous appearance of great beauty. No other preparation so effectively removes dandruff or stops falling of the hair: its cooling and healing action entirely curing itch, ring and humors of the scalp, and keeping the skin clean, white and healthy. It is perfectly harmless, exquisitely perfumed, and contains nothing that will soil the skin or gum the hair. It is not a dye, and is unequalled for excellence and purity. DIED.

MCKILLIPS—Mrs. ALMA, wife of Daniel McKillips, October 15th, 1878.
Deceased was born in the State of Vermont, September 8th, 1810. At the age of twenty-one she married, and in 1837 emigrated with her husband to Wisconsin, and settled in Johnston, Rock county, where she continued to live until her death. Mrs. McKillips was the mother of five children, three of whom still live. In middle life she became a follower of the Lord Jesus, in whose service she continued up to the time of her departure, although her poor health prevented her for years from attending the sanctuary. In her death the community has sustained a loss, but none will feel it as keenly as her aged husband, with whom she traveled the journey of life for nearly half a century. Although for nearly twenty years she was a victim of that fatal disease, consumption, yet death came suddenly, and on Sunday morning, October 15th, she departed in peace.
